Back to School Celebration at the TD Garden. Studies have shown that children who do not have new school supplies at the beginning of the academic year often skip the first several important weeks of class because they are embarrassed and believe that they don't fit in with their peers. This event provides a positive experience while playing a crucial role in the academic and personal lives of these children.

Symphony Station Accessibility Project

Thursday, August 24th, 2017

6:30 – 8:30 PM

Symphony Plaza East

334 Mass Ave, Boston, MA 02115

As part of the MBTA's System Wide Accessibility Program, the MBTA is studying how to provide full accessibility to Symphony Station on the Green Line. This study includes the design of four new elevators, along with significant station modifications consisting of raising boarding platforms, new egress points at the platforms, a renovated station lobby, and reconditioning of the currently non-functioning restrooms.

A team of consultants has been hired to select a preliminary design for the retrofitted station. It includes lead structural engineer Thornton Tomasetti and lead architect DHK Inc, both of Boston. It is anticipated that modifications to the station, associated with construction and final build out, will have an impact on the existing streetscape in the area. The MBTA has allocated approximately $5 million for the design of the station. The construction cost is anticipated to be approximately $45 million, which is proposed to be funded by a Capital Funding Request starting in the 2019 Fiscal Year.

For more information, please contact Nathaniel Cabral-Curtis, the project's public involvement manager, at ncabral-curtis@thshussoc.com or by phone at 617-348-3336. The meeting location is accessible. To request language or access accommodations, please contact MassDOT's director of Civil Rights at 857-368-8580, TTD/TTY 857-368-0603, Fax 857-368-0602 or by email at MassDOT.CivilRights@dot.state.ma.us.

Preparing For Back To School

BY THE CITY OF BOSTON

Let's get ready for an easy transition.

As teachers, parents, and students prepare to head back to school, it can be a stressful yet exciting time. Re-establishing routines and the end of summer vacation can often be a tough transition for families. These changes are typically less difficult if you have an organized plan in place for how to ensure a smooth transition. Here are some tips and resources that may address your concerns regarding going back to school.

- In August, begin to engage your family in activities that promote learning. This will help your young learners re-focus before entering school in September. It's a good idea to get that summer reading done early and begin anticipating what you'll learn in the next grade. Here you can find Boston area museums and which days they offer free or discounted passes for children.

- Boston Public Schools has some great suggestions about transitioning back to school - such as eating a healthy breakfast and lunch and designating a certain spot for your school supplies. These tips are helpful for both students and teachers alike.

- BPS is also willing to schedule a school tour with students who may be new to the school system, or have been out due to a medical condition. This will help ease the nerves for everyone involved. Additionally, Boston Children's Hospital offers a program where they support students who are re-entering school after an illness. They will facilitate providing their school with helpful information to ensure their health and safety continues.

- It can be overwhelming to be a parent with school-aged kid(s). There are endless to-do lists and full schedules. Sometimes it's hard to talk to your child about school or engage in meaningful conversations about what they are learning. PBS.org offers great ideas about how to start the conversation. In addition, Care.com provides useful solutions to everyday problems (such as finding after-school care and addressing bullying) that may cause parents stress and anxiety.

- Having the correct school supplies is important to a child's success in school. Garden Neighborhood Charities, in conjunction with the City of Boston and The Salvation Army, is holding a free event to meet this need. Find out here how to register your child. Each child will receive a backpack filled with supplies.

There will also be fun activities and various booths addressing child concerns at the event.

and veggie burgers, the last a new addition to the menu this year.

Ann Moy, president of CSTO, honored Mayor Walsh for his "commitment to diversity in the city of Boston." Moy thanked Evans for his "unwavering commitment to the safety of Boston's neighborhoods." Community service officer Javier Pagan of BPDD-4 saluted Blackstone Community Center (BCC), presenting an award to BCC's Keith Houston for the center's violence prevention program, which seeks to build positive relationships between youth and police officers through sports such as the One Hood basketball league, a partnership with IBA and BPD. BPD community service officer Mayan Tamang to his former colleague, Boston Center for Youth and Families (BCYF) street worker Dennis Avila for his efforts in fighting youth crime and violence. Lanchester presented the Morville House senior community with the 2017 Crime Watch Group of the Year Award for patrolling Symphony Park, reporting homeless people drinking, sleeping on benches, urinating in public and using drugs. A group of elders accompanied by D-4 community service officer Bernadette McCarthy, proudly wore bright blue Senior Strong T shirts as they accepted the award.

The presentations were followed by performances by the South End Dynamite youth dance troupe, the Castle Square Tai Chi Fan Dance group and hip-hop dancers the Floor Lords, while around the plaza, children shot hoops, played on inflatable slides and bounce houses and posed for pictures with Mayor Walsh and with McGruff the crime-watch dog. Sergeant Freeman and officers Litto, Slyne and McCarthy of D-4 circulated among the crowd and a returning favorite, former D-4 community service officer Jorge Dias, attended off-duty with his young son, Jack, in tow.

ASK ABOUT OUR MOVE-IN SPECIAL & NO SECURITY DEPOSIT PROGRAM

Where will you live until you can call this 'Home' again?
Your association policy won't cover your additional living expenses.
Condo owners NEED Personal Condominium Insurance for that.
Aside from replacing your personal property, it will help you with rent, while you're still paying your mortgage.
