Putting Out Fires

Submitted by Jon Seams, City of Boston

Two-year-old Max Corona of the South End is ready to put out fires at the August 21 ParkARTS Boston Children’s Festival at Franklin Park hosted by Mayor Martin J. Walsh and the Boston Parks and Recreation Department. Children and families from throughout Boston participated in a variety of free activities from exhibitions including L.L.Bean, Cambridge Science on the Street, Rosalita’s Puppets, ParkARTS, Mass Hort, Zoo New England, and more. ParkARTS is made possible in part through the generosity of Holly and David Bruce.

ASK DOG LADY

Advice on Pets, Life, Love

By Monica Collins

Dear Dog Lady,

I recently adopted a puppy, Biscuit, from a local rescue organization. She is seven months old and sweet as can be. I have had no real issues with her, except for the jumping. She jumps on me when I come home from work and jumps on me when they visit. I consulted a trainer who told me to ignore her when she jumps and praise her when she sits calmly. This pup may be young but she is already 15 pounds and I can’t quite ignore that—especially when she is jumping and knocking over my guests. I’m not sure what to do. How do I get her to stop jumping?

—Lauren

You must literally stand up to her. Hold out your hand (not in a threatening way) and in a calm voice order her to “sit.” If she doesn’t know this command, gently press her butt to the floor, telling her to sit. When she does the right thing, give her a treat. Hold out your hand again, like a traffic cop at an intersection. Keep your hand extended as you walk backwards, telling her to “stay.” When she stays, pull out another goody. Biscuit must be motivated by the desire to please you—as well as the taste of a treat.

Instead of yelling at her and creating a commotion around you, you can put her in another room and bring her out to greet guests calmly on a leash. If she tries to make a move for it, go into the “sit and stay” routine. Always keep treats in your pocket to reward her during these puppy years for anything she does well. You want to constantly reinforce good behavior.

The best way for you to be around your jumping dog is thoughtful. Use every opportunity as a teachable moment. The calmer you are, the calmer she will be. People who yell at their dogs have crazy dogs for a good reason.

Dear Dog Lady,

I was disappointed you were not tougher with the woman who rescued the Jack Russell Terrier and whose boyfriend objected to the dog. The boyfriend was a guest in the woman’s home. He doesn’t like dog hair on his clothes, he should move out. No dog deserves to be locked in the bathroom as this guy does when the dog bothers him. If the woman doesn’t get rid of this guy, he will one day treat her like he treats the dog. Shame on her and on you for not being firm with her.

—Endicott

Cue Althea Garrison

Persistent candidate may join City Council

By Sue O’Connell

Boston City Councilor Ayanna Pressley’s win over Representative Michael Capuano may have given Althea Garrison another shot at elected office.

Presidency will likely leave her position on the City Council. Garrison took fifth place last year in the at-large race, not making the cut.

Tsunami

Rushing swept from office

By Sue O’Connell

9th Suffolk District State Representative Byron Rushing, who has served at the State House since his election in 1982, was defeated Tuesday night in the Democratic primary by Dr. Jon Santiago.

Rushing was the fourth-highest ranking Democrat in the house. Santiago is a Boston Medical Center emergency room doctor.

In the three person race Santiago received 2,231 votes, Rushing 1,755, Noorizah P. Bruce 653.

Santiago made income inequality, opioid addiction, managing growth while protecting affordable housing, centerpiece to his campaign.

During Representative Byron Rushing’s 35 years representing the district he was an advocate on LGBTQ rights, civil rights, marriage equality, social justice, healthcare equity.

Dog Lady

Dear Editor,

In all her years of giving advice to the doggedly perplexed, Dog Lady realizes it's complicated. Most people already know what they want to do long before they ask, "Ask Dog Lady." Oh sure, people need advice. But more often than not they need validation. They write to seek encouragement for a decision. Or they seek a scolding when they know they're making a mistake.

In this case, the woman who wrote about her Jack Russell and her bothered boyfriend presented such a startling story that Dog Lady sensed the querist had already made up her mind about breaking up the boyfriend. And, when advising about matters of the heart, it is pointless to club someone over the head. This querist obviously loved the dog much more than the guy. So why make her feel any guiltier than she already must feel? Most people realize they're in a toxic relationship without a finger-wagging Dog Lady telling them so.

Bcae PresentS 85th Anniversary Exhibit

Faces of 1933 Showcases Contemporary Portraits of Remarkable Seniors

What do America’s favorite historian, a former Massachusetts governor, and the official witch of Salem have in common? They all got their starts in 1933.

As part of the pro-long celebration of its landmark 85th anniversary, the BCAE is proud to present Faces of 1933, a new exhibit from the lens of photographer Joel Benjamin. This unique project, installed in the BCAE’s Condon Gallery, showcases color portraits of extraordinary 85-year-olds whose lives epitomize the motivation and inspiration that has been at the heart of the BCAE since it was first established in 1933. The exhibit is free and open to the public through December during normal business hours. The BCAE is located at 122 Arlington Street in Boston.

The BCAE will celebrate the opening of this special anniversary exhibit with a free public reception on Friday, September 14, 2018 from 6:00pm-8:00pm. Guests are invited to preview the photos, meet portrait subjects, and enjoy complimentary wine and cheese. Advance registration is requested at www.bcae.org/eventRSVP.

Faces of 1933 portrait subjects include former Massachusetts State Representative and affordable housing advocate Doris Baker; the official witch of Salem Louise Cabot; recent UMass Boston graduate Joan Donovan; former Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis; noted American antiques expert Jonathan Leos Pailthorpe; former Boston Public Schools teacher Joan Gilmore; social activist and founder of the Boston Children’s Hospital Hubie Jones; historian and Pulitzer Prize-winning author David McCullough; former Chinese School principal Fong-Ming Lee; businesswoman and coach of Chelsea’s first volleyball team Shue-Pen Lee; fashion innovator Shae Willems; and former Massachusetts State Representative and children’s advocate Alice Wolf.

Joel Benjamin is a Boston-based photographer who specializes in fashion and portraiture. He has taken corporate photos for Samsonite, the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library, Thornton Bregazzi, Houghton Mifflin, Harvard, and Virgin Records. His editorial photography has been featured in Boston Globe Magazine, Health

Coming up next in South End Write

Tuesday, September 25: Award-winning novelist Randy Susan Meyers (The Widow of Wall Street, Accidents of Marriage).

Tuesday, October 9: Celebrated artistic director and conductor, Oli Rose (the 2018-2019 season of Odyssey Opera).

Tuesday, October 30: Acclaimed playwright and actress Melinda Lopez (Malo, Snow Falling).

Tuesday, December 11: Award-winning former NY Times bureau chief and current Boston Globe foreign policy correspondent Stephen Kriner (the US-Iran relationship, and perhaps other foreign policy issues as well).

Tuesday, January 8: Pulitzer-winning Zeitgeist stage director, David Miller (Triglav: A Warning, a discussion of how this newly commissioned Zeitgeist play will travel "from page to stage").

Local Focus Windows Coming Up Next SEPTEMBER. The windows will feature an installation about the Ayer Mansion on Commonwealth Avenue, the only surviving building designed by Louis Comfort Tiffany, yes, he of the spectacular stained-glass lamps and windows. Longtime South End resident, community activist and former FEUCEL board member, Jeanne Pelletier, has been the driving force behind its restoration.

OCTOBER: ODYSSEY Opera will have an exhibition in the library window about the 2018-19 season of five opera performances. This fall, two operas will honor the 200th anniversary of the birth of painter Charles Grandville (The Queen of Sales and The Doctor in Spite of Himself), in spring 2019, three operas will celebrate the life of Helen of Troy (Paris and Helen by Christof Willibald Gluck, The Egyptian Helen by Richard Strauss, and The Beautiful Helen by Jacques Offenbach). Oli Rose, the Odyssey Opera musical director and conductor, will discuss the program at the library on October 9 at 6:30 PM.

NOVEMBER. On display will be a unique and fun installation by artist and Boston public-school Kindergarten teacher, Eric Glass. His Cats and Crystals show will open at the South End Library on November 5. Glass is a resident artist at the Patio Factory.

Library Park Renovation

The long-awaited improvements to Library Park have finally happened, a small miracle after decades of neglect due to a range of financial, political and bureaucratic complications. Mayor Marty Walsh, our at-large and district e-elected councilors (especially Ed Flynn) and the Parks Department’s commissioner pulled a rabbit out of the hat enter this summer to add funds needed for construction to begin and, lo and behold, the heavy equipment arrived in late July. Library Park’s main renovations were completed by mid-August. New park furniture, reconfigured in the design above, is on back order, but seating from the previous park that was still in good condition has been reinstalled and is already being happily used (see below). Tree pruning, landscaping and other matters will happen in the near future.

South End Library Renovation

The long-awaited renovation of the downstairs interior of the South End library will begin sometime in January but details are still in the planning stage. There will be a public meeting with the architects and BPL leadership about the plans at the library sometime in late September or early October. Information will be made available to you as soon as we have it. Specifics will be announced on our website and in the next South End Library update. (A separate program study for a long-term, multimillion dollar renovation of the entire library building will also get underway sometime this year or early 2019.)

Elderly woman stabbed

BY SOUTH END NEWS STAFF

On Tuesday morning, a woman in her mid-70s was walking near 762 Tremont Street when she was stabbed by another woman, according to the Boston Police Department.

BPD is searching for the suspect, who is described as a black woman wearing a black shirt and shorts, had shoulder-length black hair, and appeared to be 30 to 40 years of age.

The victim told police she was walking around 762 Tremont St. in the South End around 6:30 a.m., when she was stabbed by the woman, Maccia said.

Magazines, Wired, Bon Appétit, and Improper Bostonian. Joel’s previous exhibitions at the BCAE have included Toyland, Marriage Equality/10th Anniversary Portraits, and The Bear Sessions Portraits.

Since 1997, the BCAE has dedicated itself to providing opportunities for all around Boston with high-quality educational opportunities that foster personal growth and professional development. By delivering hands-on experiences, facilitating a lively exchange of ideas, and sharing valuable information, our nonprofit organization actively works to build and sustain a productive, enlightened, and involved community of learners. Each year, the BCAE offers 1,200 classes, workshops, lectures, and events that attract 10,000 students to its dynamic and contemporary facility located in the heart of Boston. Led by passionate instructors, our comprehensive roster of offerings includes current events, drawing, painting, crafts, making music, food and wine, writing, computers, languages and more.

Since January, the BCAE has been celebrating its 25th anniversary with special programs, including exhibits, lectures, and community events that honor our longstanding commitment to learning, discussing, and creating in Boston. All of the BCAE’s 25th anniversary programming has been designed to increase awareness of the BCAE as a dynamic community center as well as to build new audiences whose participation and support will propel our nonprofit organization into the 22nd century.

The BCAE’s 25th Anniversary programming is supported in part by a grant from the Boston Cultural Council, a local agency which is funded by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, and administered by the Mayor’s office of Arts and Culture.
