For Free Cruises to the Boston Harbor Islands

SUBMITTED BY
SAVE THE HARBOR/SAVE THE BAY

In early August, 73 young people from the United South End Settlements and Salvation Army South End set sail to the Boston Harbor Islands on Bay State Cruise Company's flagship Provincetown II on a free All Access Boston Harbor cruise hosted by Save the Harbor/Save the Bay.

The youth and teens enjoyed a day filled with fun, fishing, environmental exploration and songs and stories of the sea.

Save the Harbor/Save the Bay's free All Access Boston Harbor program is a series of free day trips that bring local youth organizations out to Spectacle and Georges Island where they have an opportunity to learn the history of Boston Harbor and the harbor cleanup, explore everything the island has to offer, and enjoy Boston's spectacular urban natural resources.

"What a great way to spend a summer day," said Tani Marinovich, President of Save the Harbor/Save the Bay. "The Harbor Islands are truly Boston's treasure, and we're certain that the 230,000 kids and families that have attended these free trips since we began them in

Why reparations from 1619 to now

REV. IRENE MONROE

A year before the Mayflower arrived in 1620, the first group of enslaved Africans depicted as "20 and odd Negroes" arrived sometime during the final week of August to the Virginia colony of Jamestown.

The fact that the exact date cannot be pinpointed assists in obfuscating the origins of slavery in the United States.

What is incontrovertible is the fact that this month marks the 400th anniversary of black bodies arriving at these shores against their will. Little could these "20 and odd Negroes" fathomed millions more would come as huge cargoes of chattel slaves and not as human beings.

America keeps running away from this story, albeit America will acknowledge slavery is its original sin. There are few accounts for its

ASK DOG LADY

Advice on Pets, Life, Love

BY MONICA COLLINS

Dear Dog Lady,

I'm blessed with a very wonderful husband. He is just the best guy in the world. That's why I feel guilty our dog, a West Highland terrier, seems to prefer my company over his. The dog follows me around the house, waits at the front door until I get home and goes out for a walk with me whenever I bid him to come. My husband, on the other hand, doesn't get the same treatment. I feel uncomfortable about this. Should I?

—Marisa

Dear Maria,

Nope. Don't feel a twinge of remorse. If your husband doesn't feel bad about it, you shouldn't either. In a household, a dog will usually gravitate to one person whom it perceives as the leader of its pack. The reasons for this are variable: maybe your dog prefers women, or your style is more take-charge than your husband's. Whatever. Don't sweat it. Just be happy you have a "wonderful" husband.

Dear Dog Lady,

I have a three-year-old mini-Schnauzer, Jenny. She is healthy and active and gets plenty of attention at home. I have started walking for my own health and decided it's a great idea to take her along. At this point I have expanded my walks to five miles and do some jogging as well. Jenny seems to love it, but tonight she is really tired. I am worried that it may be too far for her. Can I walk/jog her too far? How far is too far? I don't plan to ever exercise more than an hour, but I do plan to jog more and more.

—Carolyn

Dear Carolyn,

Lucky, lucky Jenny! She's getting the exercise she deserves to tire her out and make her a very happy camper—and sleeper. The general rule of dog thumb is that an hour a day is just right for dogs and Dog Lady has never heard of too much exercise for a three-year-old dog. But check with your veterinarian.

Considering Jenny is a mini, you will want to understand her stamina may be less than bigger dogs. And vary the routine. Walk and run with her five miles one day and two miles the next until both you are at the peak of conditioning. As you are building up your strength, so is Jenny. You sound like a very responsible dog owner who stays tuned in to your dog's state of mind—and body. Giving a dog daily exercise is the greatest gift to both of you.

Dear Dog Lady,

I was accosted by a busy-body at the mall who felt I was abusing my dog when I left it in my car while I asked directions from a shop owner. The busy-body kept repeating her complaint, never letting me get a word in defense or explanation. I felt more frustration than guilt.

I used to feel concern that someone might steal my "Baby." Ginger is a beautiful Chihuahua. Now, busy-bodies are what really concern me. I am afraid to take my dog for the ride she expects anytime I go on an errand. Big Brother is watching.

—Emmett

Dear Emmett,

Darned if you do; double darned if you don't. Little else Dog Lady can add to this observation except to assume always that somebody is watching—a busy-body or, geez, the NSA. Try to assume a more forgiving nature. And think before you leave your dog in the car alone. Sure, self-righteous busy-bodies who don't let you get a word in edgewise are very annoying but they probably mean well.

2002 would agree."

Over the summer Save the Harbor/Save the Bay's free All Access Boston Harbor program will connect more than 10,000 youth and teens from more than 120 youth development and community organizations to the Boston Harbor Islands National and State Park.

The day starts with an interactive history of the harbor, complete with storytelling, art and a touch-tank at the Rockland Trust Pavilion. From there, the groups make their way to the dock at the World Trade Center to board the boat and take a short ferry ride out to the islands, where they have the chance to try fishing, hiking, sports and beach exploration with Save the Harbor/Save the Bay's Youth Environmental Education staff. The groups enjoy lunch on the island and return to the docks by early afternoon.

In 2019, Save the Harbor will host 26 free All Access Boston Harbor cruises that will connect young people from all Boston neighborhoods and 43 cities and towns across the region, to the Boston Harbor Islands State and National Park. For many, these trips are their first opportunity to connect to the harbor islands and experience the marine environment firsthand.

Save the Harbor/Save the Bay is a non-profit public-interest environmental advocacy organization for Boston Harbor, whose mission is to restore and protect Boston Harbor, the Boston Harbor Islands, our region's beaches and the marine environment and share them with the public for everyone to enjoy.

For more information about Save the Harbor/Save the Bay, visit their website at www.savetheharbor.org, their blog Sea, Sand & Sky at www.blog.savetheharbor.org or follow their social media @savetheharbor.

apology: Southern Baptist Convention in 1995; Former President Bill Clinton in 1998, U.S. House of Representatives (H.Res. 194) in 2008, and spiritual guru and presidential hopeful Marianne Williamson in 2018.

"On behalf of myself, and on behalf of my country, to you and all African Americans, from the beginning of our nation's history, in honor of your ancestors and for the sake of your children, please hear this from my heart, I apologize, please forgive us," Williamson told her audience during her "Love America Tour."

One of the lingering impacts of 250 years of slavery followed by 90 years of Jim Crow and then 60 years of "separate but equal" is a seismic wealth gap between white and black Americans. It is estimated that approximately $12-14 trillion of unpaid black labor is owed for 400 years of economic inequality.

Here in Greater Boston, which includes expensive Cambridge where I reside, for example, the median net worth for non-immigrant blacks is $8. When I first read it in the 2017 Boston Spotlight Team series on race, I thought it was a typo. I gasped in horror and sadness learning it wasn't.

This year on Juneteenth (June 19 which commemorates the end of U.S. slavery) the House Judiciary subcommittee held a historic meeting on reparations. Economic initiatives are being discussed inside and outside the halls of Congress to remedy the consequences, and then subsequent disadvantages ensued as a result of the systematic disenfranchisement of African Americans.

The topic, however, has been broached before and gone nowhere. First, with civil rights activist James Forman in 1969, and then with former Michigan Rep. John Conyers, Jr. proposing H.R. 40 Bill (referencing to the broken promise of "40 acres and a mule" to emancipated slaves), every year from 1989 until retirement in 2017.

Reparations in the form of monetarily compensating for black farmland confiscated or about to be seized by the government for back taxes, my spouse's family would benefit from right now.

My spouse's family on her maternal side are Virginians from Upperville, a small unincorporated town known for horse breeding farms. They have been in Virginia since the 1600s and with Ancestry.com may find their lineage points to one if not several of the "20 and odd Negroes" who first arrived. My spouse's Uncle Will died last year at the age of 102. He and his siblings represent the second generation removed from slavery.

My spouse's mother is the last remaining sibling. Uncle Will's grandmother, my spouse's great grandmother, was born into slavery and died as a free woman at the age of 108. Sometime during Reconstruction (1863-1877), the great grandmother accrued a small plot of farmland that now awaits its fate as her brood scrape together enough money to keep it. By 1910, before Uncle Will's mother gave birth to him on the family farm, black farmers operated approximately 213,000 farms, the height of black land ownership.

However, soon after black farmland was either forcefully taken by mob violence like the Klu Klux Klan or gradually taken by state and federal governments through legal trickery or discriminatory lending practices. In 1916, the beginning of the Black Migration to northern cities, Uncle Will was born. When he became a grown man looking for a better life and wages, Uncle Will left Upperville for Alexandria, and, so too, his siblings, one-by-one as they got older.

Miraculously, the farm has stayed in the family in spite of the various machinations the government—legal and illegal—employs to confiscate black farmland - except for the inexplicable claim of back taxes. The amount is unattainable, especially for the deadline the state of Virginia gave the family to dispute or to pay.

Reparations to African Americans are not a government handout. It is the "promissory note to which every American was to fall heir" Martin Luther King, Jr. spoke about in his "I Have A Dream" speech in 1963. "In a sense," King said, "we have come to our nation's capital to cash a check."

Reparations are due to my spouse's family as to millions more. America needs to pay up and pay forward.
