SE Landmark District Commission Approves Project At BFCIT Campus

View into Courtyard from Berkeley

BY LANDMARKS COMMISSION

At its March 7, 2023 public hearing, the South End Landmark District Commission voted to approve the application for the redevelopment of the 1.2 acre Benjamin Franklin Cummings Institute of Technology (BFCIT) campus. BFCIT is relocating to Nubian Square and has sold the South End property to developers who propose to preserve and renovate the South End site's existing historic buildings as well as to introduce new spaces to allow for a change in use of the site – continuing the mission of BFCIT, but modifying to meet the needs of the community. New uses include a senior care facility, retail space, both market and income restricted housing, and improvements to the Tremont, Appleton and Berkeley streetscape.

The focus of historic preservation efforts centers around the Franklin Union Building (erected in 1908) and numbers 4 and 6 Appleton Street (erected in 1891 and 1883 respectively). The facade of the Franklin Union Building as well as its existing floors will be preserved. A concealed, one-story rooftop addition will be added to the building. The existing facade of 4 Appleton Street will be preserved and a horizontal expansion added. At 6 Appleton Street, the facade will also be preserved and at street level the facade will be restored to its original configuration.

A new Senior Care Building facing Tremont Street clad in brick and terra cotta will also be erected. This building will provide 190,000 square feet of assisting living and memory care space and also provide 5,300 square feet of ground level retail and restaurant space. Finally, the site interior will be reframed into a landscaped courtyard passage open to the public connecting Berkeley and Tremont Streets.

The Commission looks forward to future material mock-ups, discussions on facade and public realm details in subcommittee, and a return to the Commission for a presentation as work nears 75% completion. The proposed project will bring much needed housing opportunities to the South End while maintaining the architectural characteristics that tell the story of this unique neighborhood.

LGBTQ+ Victory Fund Endorses John Moran for 9th Suffolk District State Representative

SUBMITTED BY LGBTQ+ VICTORY FUND

BOSTON — Today, John Moran's campaign announced that LGBTQ+ Victory Fund — the only national organization dedicated to electing LGBTQ+ people to public office — has endorsed John Moran for State Representative. The endorsement signals Victory Fund's confidence that Moran is well-positioned to win the state representative race and will be a strong voice for equality once elected. Moran would be the first openly LGBTQ+ person to hold this seat, one that encompasses a historically LGBTQ+ population in the South End.

"LGBTQ+ Victory Fund is pleased to endorse John Moran for State Representative," said Mayor Annise Parker, President & CEO of LGBTQ Victory Fund. "John will bring a unique and important perspective to Beacon Hill and ensure all residents are considered when policy decisions are made. He will also make history when elected, becoming the first out LGBTQ+ person to represent this district."

"I am proud to earn the LGBTQ+ Victory Fund endorsement," said John Moran. "When I arrived in the South End 24 years ago, I was not completely confident in who I was as a gay man. What I found here, in the 9th Suffolk district, was a welcoming community that helped me to develop my voice and inspired my call to progressive values and real change. I look forward to giving back this great gift by working hard for all if I were to be elected your next State Representative."

resident made history running in this category. The City and the B.A.A. will recognize Danielle Bishop, who finished the race in 3:32:29, as the first Bostonian to participate in the race registered as non-binary. Bishop is a 28 year old Allston resident running in their fifth Boston Marathon. They are a Team Lead at New Balance, a Boston University alum, and enjoy running for fun.

"We are thrilled to celebrate three Bostonians who exemplify the spirit of the Boston Marathon," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "Each of these athletes ran an incredible race. I'm grateful to the B.A.A. for joining with the City of Boston to recognize the incredible talent right here in our neighborhoods that is part of what makes this the greatest race in the world. Congratulations to Shannon LaMarre, Vinny Castronuovo, and Danielle Bishop! We look forward to celebrating with them and the larger Boston running community."

"Congratulations to our Fastest Bostonians! Vinny, Shannon and Danielle made history today and have set the stage for many Bostonians in the year to come. In typical Bostonian fashion, our champions showed grit, determination and a never-give-up attitude," said Jack Fleming, CEO and President of the B.A.A.

The Boston Marathon is the world's oldest annual marathon. This is the first year that Boston residents with the quickest time crossing the Finish Line will receive a commemorative glass bowl engraved with the phrase "Fastest Bostonian."

The reception to honor Boston's fastest runners will be announced soon.

Just For Us

these questions in a secret visit to such a hate group meeting in Queens. One year later, that undercover odyssey became the defining experience of his one-man effort "Just For Us." Now the talented 34 year old writer-comedian has returned to the Hub with this often humorous, vividly insightful and ultimately all too timely show.

Comedy aficionados who think "Just for Us" is an excuse for material about the sign language savvy gorilla Coco and an unlikely joke about a fat horse should think again. Early on in this disarming no-intermission 90-minute stunner, Edelman candidly describes it as a show full of silliness, and then something happens. At the same time, the multiple talent—who has worked as a speechwriter for the Boston Red Sox—advises that he is no political authority and calls his comedy "a little more personal, a little more anecdotal."

If anyone is an ideal candidate for such a personal exploration of anti-Semitism, it is Edelman. Alex grew up in an Orthodox Jewish family and graduated from Brookline's Maimonides yeshiva (full disclosure this critic is a Maimonides graduate who knows Edelman's doctor-professor father Elazar). The recipient of an "avalanche of anti-Semitism," Edelman ingeniously put such haters on a Twitter list and notified them that they were now Jewish National Fund Contributors. Deciding to 'crash' the Queens White Nationalist meeting in question, the proud Ashkenazic Jew traveled to its 27th Avenue setting.

In detailing that telling 2017 meeting, Edelman richly describes several very different participants. An 80 year old woman works on the biggest jigsaw puzzle-12,000 pieces in all. A young woman named Chelsea claims that Jared Kushner and his friends are running America. For his part, Edelman amusingly tells the audience that Kushner walks up so arrogantly when called for a synagogue

Hearing Chelsea admit to not being crazy about the N-word, Edelman humorously speaks of being surprised by the "spectrum of Nazis." He also notes "so much kvetching" by the attendees. On a serious note, Edelman singles out the group's "conspiracy level anti-Semitism." He does wonder to whom one owes empathy—which he does see as an essential Jewish value. Verbal abuse and stereotypes notwithstanding, Edelman does admit to a brief attempt at understanding the participants as "not life's winners."

Throughout this lively and well-paced show—kudos to director Adam Brace, Edelman displays sharp timing, expressive body language and fine physical comedy. Look for an unforgettable example of empathy on the part of Edelman's parents in helping a friend of his mother—grieving over the loss of her parents—celebrate Christmas. Other highlights include references to Judaism as a "Hotel California religion" from which one cannot unsubscribe and Edelman's reaction to a religious Jewish couple's belief that the vaccine for measles could make their child autistic.

Near the end of his show, Edelman explains that he went to the Queens meeting because he thought "I could make it work." Quite simply, "Just For Us" works as a brilliant encounter with anti-Semitism and a laughter-rich exploration of identity and empathy. Edelman's comic gifts are just for everyone.

EARLY ON IN THIS DISARMING NO-INTERMISSION 90-MINUTE STUNNER, EDELMAN CANDIDLY DESCRIBES IT AS A SHOW FULL OF SILLINESS, AND THEN SOMETHING HAPPENS.

Aliyah as though he wrote the Torah. Asked for his name at the meeting, he answers 'Alex'—not his long Hebrew name, which he tells the audience. A man who calls himself Cortes—later identified as Mac—interrogates Alex with the persistence of an FBI agent. Concealing his identity as long as possible, he informs Cortes that he studied English at New York University. The 'Jigsaw Lady' bemoans Prince Harry's marriage to mixed raced Meghan Markle and uses the N-word.
