Fall-O-Ween family festival

South Enders spotted at the October 20 Fall-O-Ween family festival hosted by the Boston Parks and Recreation Department on Boston Common include five-year-old Cameron Clark (front), Bennett O'Sullivan (4) and his mom Alex, and Chloe Copeland (2) with her mom, Anne. The event offered a free "monster mash" of activities including music, arts and crafts, treats, rides on a trackless train, field games, individual, group play facilitated by Knucklebones, LEGO® Discovery Center Boston hosted giveaways and fun Halloween-themed LEGO building activities. For John Heminges and Henry Condell, "To be or not to be" had as much to do with the First Folio as with "Hamlet." It may be no exaggeration to say that this authoritative 1623 edition of 36 plays would never have come into being without the determined and unflagging efforts of these Lions of the Boards.

Accomplished playwright Lauren Gunderson ("Silent Sky") has dramatized their devoted collaboration in "The Book of Will"—a richly detailed play that not only honors Shakespeare and the greatest theatrical achievement in the English language but also evokes his colleagues' professional and personal challenges. Thanks to gifted director Bryn Boice (a recent strong all-female "Julius Caesar"), an inspired Hub Theatre Company edition brings the Heminges-Condell collaboration to vivid life at the Boston Center for the Arts.

"The Book of Will" smartly begins three years after the playwright's death (1616) in a London where 'mice' are attempting to play 'lions' in pathetic performances that make a mockery of Shakespeare. Heminges, Condell and iconic Globe Theatre actor Richard Burbage (who would die in 1619)—concerned about the authenticity of the Bard's canon—know that the true texts could vanish if not published. Preferring a high quality folio to cheap quartos, Heminges and Condell agree to create a collection on fine paper with exacting Ed Crane as its editor.

As Gunderson presents Heminges and Condell, they are a striking study in contrast. Heminges comes across as a reserved financial manager, where Condell—who speaks of being Will's best friend—seems more ready to take risks to realize their objectives. At the same time, the two colleagues display the kind of easy mutual affection common to bros nowadays. Condell will even offer to kiss Crane in appreciation of his considerable efforts.

Eventually the First Folio begins to come together as a variety of factors bear fruit. Rival poet-playwright Ben Jonson agrees to write a preface—in which he calls Will "Soul of the age", and Lady Emilia Lanier—often identified by scholars as the Dark Lady of several Shakespeare sonnets—makes a significant financial contribution. Publisher Isaac Jaggard commits to an "unrivalled collection of unrivalled plays," and Crane right insists on no alterations to the texts of the plays.

Designer Peyton Tavares has brilliantly constructed a surrounding set piece that allows audience members to see characters moving to and fro in the background and enables the collaborating compilers to hang up folio pages—with kudos to designer Ted Kearnan for evoking the sound of the printing.

A first-rate cast captures both the deep feeling and rich ideas of Gunderson's writing. Brendan O'Neill has all of Heminges' uncommon attention to the plays and tenderness

Library Shuttle

SUBMITTED BY FRIENDS OF THE SOUTH END LIBRARY

Due to the temporary closing of the South End Library, due to an agreement with Age Strong, a shuttle service to the Parker Hill Branch will run on Mondays and Wednesdays and will accommodate 8 people with reservations for a 10AM pickup at the South End Library. The return will be at noon.

Parker Hill is a smaller branch where South Enders can get to know the staff as well as pick up and drop off books. If you want to pick up your "hold" books at Parker Hill, you will need to go to the bpl.org website, sign into your Account, and go to My Settings. Then select Account Preferences/Hold and Pickup Location/Change. There you can select Parker Hill and save your selection. The books you put on hold will then be sent to Parker Hill and you will be notified in the usual way when they arrive. There is no fee for "overdue" books; whenever the book is returned, the fee is removed.

Rachel and Bill Motley and Laura Will and David Nicholson co-chaired the 24th annual gala, which raised over $1.9 million for important research initiatives and vital patient care programs at MGfC.

Rafanelli Events provided a stunning backdrop inspired by the beloved children's book series, Frog and Toad. The Omni was transformed into a whimsical forest with large-scale storybook drawings and oversized trees, while tablescapes of river rocks, mushrooms and fiddleheads created a sense of adventure reminiscent of a walk through the woods.

Joanne Wolfe, MD, MPH, MGfC Physician-in-Chief; Allan M. Goldstein, MD, MGfC Surgeon-in-Chief; and William Curry, MD, Chief Medical Officer, Massachusetts General Hospital, led guests through a poignant speaking program and shared the inspiring story of adolescent patient Maegan's treatment for an eating disorder.

One of the highlights of the live auction, emceed by The Sports Hub's Rich Shertenlieb, was a one-of-a-kind experience at the 150th anniversary of the Kentucky Derby courtesy of West Point Thoroughbreds. The package included a VIP backstretch tour and partial ownership in a thoroughbred racing horse, plus custom derby attire by designer Sue Sartor.

Guests enjoyed a special performance by Andrew Marshall, finalist of NBC's "The Voice" Season 20 and a Boxford native who underwent treatment for leukemia at MGfC for almost four years. Carnival booth games like Corn Hole and "Operation" and a lively dance floor led by Mario the DJ rounded out the spectacular night.

Theater

with his supportive wife Rebecca—played with conviction and caring by Laura Rocklyn. Cleveland Nicoll combines fiery enthusiasm for the Folio and affecting brotherly love for Heminges as Condell.

Dev Luthra moves with crisp authority through memorable lines from the plays as Burbage, and John Blair has the right combination of ego and boozy individuality as Jonson. Lauren Elias is properly empathetic as Heminges' daughter Alice. Jeremy Beazlie has Isaac's strong will and professional pride, and Josh Telepman captures Crane's unwavering principle. Jessica Golden has Elizabeth Condell's warmth, and Robert Thorpe II amuses as an inept actor.

For Condell, stories are real in their own way. The same can be heartily said of Hub Theatre Company's wonderfully stirring "The Book of Will."

VOTE FOR ERIN MURPHY & BRIDGET NEE-WALSH FOR BOSTON CITY COUNCIL AT-LARGE ON NOVEMBER 7TH

Erin Murphy

Erin Murphy is a lifelong Bostonian who knows how to get things done. Endorsed by Congressman Stephen F. Lynch, city workers and our first responders, Murphy will continue to fight for workers by protecting jobs and demanding fair wages, while also keeping our neighborhoods safe. As a single mom and former Boston public school teacher, Murphy will work tirelessly on behalf of parents to improve our schools and ensure that every child has the opportunity to thrive.

These are not empty pledges, but promises kept by a proven leader.

Murphy will also fight for:

- More Affordable Housing
- Community Policing
- Expanding Green Spaces

Vote for Erin Murphy for Boston City Council At-Large on November 7, 2023

Proudly Endorsed by Boston City Council President Ed Flynn

Bridget Nee-Walsh

Bridget Nee-Walsh brings traditional, blue collar values in her mission to build a better Boston. A proud union ironworker and devoted mom, Bridget understands the tough challenges of working families and will fight for a stronger middle-class.

With the same fearlessness she has shown while working high atop the City's towering buildings, Bridget will dedicate herself to improving the lives of all Bostonians.

Bridget will also fight for:

- Growing Small Businesses
- More Job Creation & Workforce Training
- Tutoring and Vocational Programs for Our Students

Vote for Bridget Nee-Walsh for Boston City Council At-Large on November 7, 2023

Murphy and Nee-Walsh – strong, independent voices committed to standing up for the working class.
